

BARESI & CAINE X BRABHAM

INTRODUCING THE SIR JACK BRABHAM STELLA BT19 TIMEPIECE

Crafting Elegance

One second at a time

In the realm of luxury timepieces, Baresi & Caine stands as a beacon of unparalleled craftsmanship and timeless elegance. Swiss Made and uncompromising in its pursuit of excellence, the brand's presence is felt ever more profoundly on the global stage for the past 10 years attracting celebrities, elite athletes, collectors and connoisseurs who recognise authenticity when they see it.

In 1966, Sir Jack Brabham achieved one of Formula One's greatest feats by winning the World Championship in a car bearing his own name, defeating established giants such as Ferrari. Brabham was never about following the establishment; it was about challenging it and redefining what was possible.

That same mentality defines Baresi & Caine. As an independent Swiss watchmaker, the brand is unapologetically taking on the traditional powerhouses of the watch world. Brabham recognised in Baresi & Caine the very qualities that defined their own historic triumph, innovation, engineering integrity, and the courage to compete against the biggest names in the industry. This collaboration is therefore far more than symbolic; it is a meeting of kindred spirits who believe legacy is built by those bold enough to disrupt the status quo.

Baresi & Caine have also been commissioned to create exceptional timepieces for global sporting icons including Wayne Rooney, Nigel Benn, Conor Benn, and Emiliano Martínez, the FIFA World Cup-winning goalkeeper. Each commission reflects a shared mindset of high performance, resilience and elite achievement.

Like Brabham in 1966, Baresi & Caine is proving that independent vision, when matched with uncompromising engineering and Swiss precision, can stand shoulder to shoulder with and even surpass the established elite. In doing so, the brand is not simply participating in the future of luxury watchmaking; it is helping to define it.

Baresi & Caine named their very first timepiece the Stella, derived from the Italian word for 'star' as a symbol of origin, ambition, and guidance. Just as a star provides light in the darkness, the Stella represented the brand's first spark of inspiration and the beginning of its journey into haute horology. It was conceived as the guiding light for everything that would follow, a statement of intent, a commitment to craftsmanship, and the foundation upon which the future of Baresi & Caine would be built.

Welcome to the world of Baresi & Caine — and welcome to the STELLA BT19, where the journey truly begins.

Case & Construction

The watch is housed in a highly polished stainless steel case, finished to a flawless mirror sheen. Every surface reflects light with clarity and precision, reinforcing the refined yet commanding presence on the wrist.

Securing the timepiece is a highly polished stainless steel deployment clasp, engineered for both comfort and durability. Set smoothly into the clasp is an 18ct gold B&C monogram, seamlessly integrated as a subtle mark of exclusivity and craftsmanship.

The case architecture is bold, sculptural and contemporary, a modern performance case executed with traditional Swiss finishing standards.

Dial — Carbon

The dial is crafted from forged carbon, paying tribute to Brabham and their pioneering engineering mindset. Carbon represents strength, lightness and technical evolution, the very qualities that defined Brabham's dominance.

Dominating the dial is a functional rev counter inspired by the Brabham BT19.

- The rev limiter is calibrated to the exact limit used by Sir Jack Brabham in 1966, creating a direct mechanical connection to history.
- A sweeping seconds hand at the 9 o'clock position drives the rev counter display, mirroring the build and release of engine power.

Set proudly on the carbon surface is an 18ct gold REPCO logo, honouring the engine partnership that powered Brabham's championship success.

The dial features applied indices and the B&C logo positioned at 12 o'clock. Both the hands and indices are filled with Blue Super-LumiNova, delivering high-performance visibility with a cool, race-inspired glow in low light.
